NEWSLETTER - Friday 4th October 2019

Message from Mr Priestley

Half term will soon be upon us - where has the time gone? As ever, we have lots going on in school before we break up for two weeks. With Halloween and Bonfire Night on the horizon, our local PCSOs will be coming into school next week to remind the children about how to stay safe.

It is great to see so many parents coming into school to attend workshops or help with educational visits. I am getting lots of really positive feedback from you all at the moment which is much appreciated.

One aspect which we are really proud of is the school council. The deadline for nominations will be Tuesday 8th October with the elections taking place exactly a week later. I have had lots of forms returned and the response has been fantastic. Due to high demand, we will put spare copies in school reception for any last minute nominations from the pupils. I am hoping that the first duty of the new school councillors will be the annual Remembrance Day service at the war memorial on Sunday 11th November.

Many thanks for your continued support.

Parents Evenings and Book Fair - Monday 14th and Tuesday 15th October 2019

You should have all received a parents evening letter - please complete and return back to your child's class teacher as soon as possible. We will be holding a Book Fair in the lower hall on these 2 days - please come and have a browse at all the books on offer. All books purchased from the Book Fair go towards earning rewards for our school library and your support is much appreciated.

Nottingham Forest

We would like to say a huge welcome to Tom Norton, our new Nottingham Forest Primary Stars representative.

Thank you, Mrs Bradbury.
